TIMOTHY P. HEALY

COMMISSIONER
FEDERAL MEDIATION AND CONCILIATION SERVICE

Timothy P. Healy is a Commissioner assigned to the Chicago field office of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (FMCS). In this capacity, he provides mediation services for parties in the private, public and federal sectors. These services include labor contract negotiations, grievance mediation, and training for all levels in the workplace. He is experienced in training labor and management teams in collective bargaining/contract administration, labor management committee structure and processes, problem solving, communication and decision making.

Prior to joining FMCS, Tim served as Vice President of SEIU Local 1, Firemen and Oilers Division. In this capacity he was responsible for negotiation strategy and process, grievance and arbitration work for thirty (30) separate and distinct labor contracts. These contracts covered approximately sixty (60) percent public sector and forty (40) percent private sector employers in throughout multiple states in the Midwest. In addition to this contract administration work, he served as Union Trustee on two (2) Taft Hartley Pension Funds and one (1) Health and Welfare plan.

Tim also served on a number of union coalitions and was the spokesperson and lead negotiator for the State of Illinois' Coalition of Unionized Trade Organizations.

Throughout his career Tim had a strong focus on problem solving and advocacy for the members he had the honor of serving. Tim started as a member of Local 7, Firemen & Oilers at the County of Cook Hospital in 1982 then moved to Business Representative in October 1995. In 2006, he was elected President of the local until fully merging with SEIU Local 1 as V.P. of the F&O Division in August 2011, until such time as he accepted his appointment as Commissioner of the FMCS in February 2017.

Tim holds a B.S in Communications from Southern Illinois University – Carbondale, Illinois.
